WEEKLY REVIEW

8/1 The weak economy is taking center stage. GDP for the first half of 2011 was corrected down and now the second half projection is getting lowered. Bonds are rallying.

7/25 Not much change in bond prices as investors await the US debt solution.

7/18 No changes.

7/11 Bond market reversal; see the chart on page 4.

7/5 Two of the three positions were stopped out last week.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, and 9 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

7/5 Bond market pulled back as the situation in Greece seemed to ease and QE II ended. SLM Bond Timing Model turned bearish.

WEEKLY REVIEW

8/1 Three positions were stopped out last week as they fell below support levels. The short position in EWP (Spain) is still intact.

7/25 Still waiting for some risk resolution before buying. In the meantime, reshort EWP. Note the changed stop levels.

7/18 Will look to redeploy when background news (euro-debt and US-debt) improves, bearishness increases, and positive divergences develop.

7/11 Intermediate-term top. Reduce risk.

7/5 Big rally last week.

6/20 Please note the nibble buying that moves about 12% into ETFs out of money market.

6/13 No changes. Will watch for a good reentry point to go long again. Still expect recovery highs after this current correction. Portfolio is now outperforming the index for the year-to-date as noted below.

6/3 Reenter the short Spain position as noted above. Before buying, I'll wait for some confirmation that the down trend is over.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

Growth Charts

EWP—Spain

8/1 Well defined down channel. This European country is still dealing with its sovereign debt issue.

7/25 It's near the top of its down channel. Time to reshort.

PKW—Buyback achievers

8/1 Without more buybacks, this ETF is about to get stopped out.

IWM—Russell 2000

8/1 New more severe down channel forming?

7/25 At top of channel.

7/18 No change.

7/11 Back into the down channel.

7/5 Possible trend change.

6/27 Watch for possible top!?

6/20 At support. Needs to bounce to confirm.

6/10/11 Daily chart again. At support.

6/3/11 Shows a weekly chart—IWM made it back to new highs above 2007. And has pulled back awaiting a catalyst.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

essentially they gave us months of uncertainty as we wait for the bipartisan committee to act.

In the meantime, the economy is turning from weak to weaker. GDP for q2 came in at 1.3%. Q1 was revised downward to a mere 0.4%. Q3 and 4 projections are coming down to the 2% level, which seems optimistic.

Last week, for example, the Fed's Beige Book reported weakness across all districts. This week the ISM report came out barely above the contraction level.

On the positive side, the leading economic indicators are still trending up; they are positive. So, a slowing economy does not yet mean a recession. In fact, accelerating expansion may yet occur. The Fed remains accommodative.

So, the big unknown moving forward is still the answer to what Congress will do with spending and taxes. Cutting spending and raising taxes would be major negatives for the economy. It may be this that the stock market is only just now starting to think about and discount.

8/1 Backtesting some strategies in the newish model. It will be a slower process than first anticipated, though initial results suggest one thing; an allocation into strong ETFs is very important. In other words, buying the strong ETF with even poor timing may be more profitable than buying a weak ETF with near perfect timing. This may be obvious, but hard numbers help see it.

7/25 Some progress in the newish ETF timing and selecting model begin made.

7/18 No changes.

7/11 No changes.

7/5 ETF performance tables on pages 3 (income), and 7, 8, 9, and 10 (growth), have been updated through 6/30/11.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.
