News Driven

The stock market continues to be driven by alternating days of good and bad news from around the world. Pick your topic. Housing, deficits and debt ceilings, or economics. The easiest, most obvious news driver is the sovereign debt issue of Greece.

First their problems are solved. Then they're not solved. Then they are solved. And on it goes. Up and down the market goes without much of a discernible trend lately. Is the news discounted or not? Is the problem solved or not? I call it a saw tooth market, grinding it out.

With all this back and forth without a clear directional move one way or the other, it would not be unreasonable to assume that investor sentiment is neutral. It is. Basically, during and after the sharp drop from 7/22

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, and 9 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

9/19 The corporate bond market looks to be rolling over. My corporate bond timing model turns bearish (shown above).

9/12 Trend up. Safety trade is still on.

9/5 The safety trade in Treasuries is still on. 10 year notes near 2%.

8/29 Fear of recession and default drove the rally. Conditions have improved however, and a pullback is expected. Longer-term the same fears will linger.

8/22 No change. Still overbought. Fear of recession is in control.

8/15 Bond market way overbought still. Don't chase.

WEEKLY REVIEW

9/16 Reenter short EWP (Spain). Sell 1/2 of the two long positions.

9/12 The market is either at a ledge or bottom here. Will stand aside with current positions for now. Watch the stops.

9/5 Please note the raised stop levels. They are tight, so expect the possibility of some whipsaws (in, out, in, out).

8/29 No changes. Will begin to accumulate on short-term pullbacks, as I expect the market to work its way higher from here. But monitor the raised stops.

8/22 Will reenter the market. The short-term test appears successful so far. Please carefully note the stops.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

through 8/10, sentiment has really done nothing more than turn from complacent (too many bulls, which is negative) to neutral. Extremes of fear that typically show up at market bottoms (or tops) just are not there. This suggests another down leg that takes out the August lows is necessary to create that fear.

Given all of these cross currents, a trading mentality is still called for and even a change of strategy. Instead of buying dips for long-term holds, I suspect it would be more prudent to begin to sell rallies. Right now we are in a rally off the August lows, and as noted in the Growth Portfolio on page 6, I'll be selling part of the long positions. In addition, I will reinitiate the short position.

Having said that, the news, especially as it concerns the European Union, can change daily, so monitor stop levels. If they finally come up with a permanent positive solution (deficit reduction, recapitalization), the markets should rally. Conversely, if that solution turns out to be worse than expected (insolvency or default), then the markets should sell off.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

9/16 No changes.

9/12 No changes.

9/5 The ETF performance and ranks have been updated through 8/31/11 and are posted.

8/29 No changes.

8/22 For Growth and Income Portfolio performances, I've included the from inception to current returns. For example, the Growth Portfolio since inception is up 12.5% versus the Wilshire 5000 up 2.1%.

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.
