Q3 GDP Report

The “advance” estimate of gross domestic product report came out last week for quarter three. It showed an unexpected gain of 2%. But keep in mind this is subject to major revisions. The first revision is due 11/29.

GDP in q2 was up 1.3%.

Positives in q3 were increased consumer spending, which is linked to improved housing. The biggest asset for most Americans is their house. When it at least stabilizes in value or goes up, the wealth effect is created. Like with a bull market in stocks, we feel better.

Refinancing has also helped. This too is tied to stabilizing prices. The loan to value ratio has to improve in order to get refinancing.

Government spending, primarily on defense, actually

WEEKLY REVIEW

10/30 No changes. I still expect yields to remain stable to down in the months ahead.

10/22 I'll sell the short-dated corporate bond BSV and buy the 10-20 year Treasury TLH.

10/15 Treasuries appear to be bouncing. See charts on the next pages.

10/8 No changes, but watching for trend change in Treasuries.

10/1 No changes.

9/24 Will look to buy more MBB on weakness. This holding is driven by a timing/fundamental move (Fed buying), rather than a selecting move as MBB is in the bottom 20% (see page 3 for income selecting rankings).

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, 9, and 10 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

10/30 If the previous analysis is correct (weak Treasuries will play catch-up to stronger corporates), then it's only a matter of time before the down trend line drawn on the chart is broken to the upside.

10/22 I'll buy the Treasuries on their relative weakness to corporates; this is shown on page 2.

10/15 Treasuries bounced back through their downtrend line.

10/8 Treasuries are "cheap" relative to corporates, as seen on the chart above. The last time this happened Treasuries came roaring back (down trending blue line that was broken to the upside).

10/1 No changes.

9/24 Treasuries appear relatively attractive to corporates.

9/17 Corporates (solid line) have held up relative to Treasuries (vertical bars), which sold off hard last week.

Each chart shows daily prices, a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), and spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

This shows the ETF Growth Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. Rank shows the number of comets from 5 to 1. The larger the better.

surged in q3 by 13%, as the war in Afghanistan and Iraq continue to wind down. Presumably this strongly positive contribution to GDP is projected to really fall off when the fiscal cliff hits on 1/1/13. This drop in turn is on reason why some are expecting a recession in q1 and q2 of 2013.

The negatives to the GDP report were falling business investment and decreasing exports. As noted many times, with Europe in recession and China slowing, it makes sense that our exports would decrease.

So, while the 2% increase was above most estimates, it is reasonable to expect not only downward revisions, but also continued weakness in exports, business spending, and government spending in the quarters ahead.

The positives should continue to be the housing and the consumer.

But, most economists also say that GDP growth of 2.5% is required to create more jobs at a quicker pace. So, unless this is achieved, one has to wonder how long the consumer will 'feel happy' based on job expectations.

In the meantime, the stock market has come back down a bit as the fiscal cliff and election uncertainty take precedence over Fed quantitative easing.

A pullback is welcome in order to work off excessive bullishness. If sentiment actually turns bearish in the face of news, it would be contrarily bullish.

Please see the specific portfolio pages for changes.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use regularly.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Cyclical is 1-5 years.

Secular is 5 years to decades.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

Oddly, bull and bear markets may occur simultaneously, but only over different time periods. For example, we may be in a secular bear market, but there are cyclical bull and bear markets within that.

Closing stops are "mental". I look at the position at quarter to the close. If it is trading below the stop (or above if short), then I act with the assumption the security will trigger that closing stop on that day. I sell (or cover) at the close that day.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: New selecting and timing model is nearing completion.

Both portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst (Tuesday if Monday is a holiday).

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment. This is a broad based index of domestic stocks.

You may subscribe on the web site InvestmentST.com using PayPal or call 1-800-800-6563 for Amex, Visa, MasterCard, or Discover orders or send a check to the address on the front page. Subscriptions may be tax deductible.

The recurring monthly subscription is $24.00. An annual subscription is $240.00. Subscribers receive this weekly eNewsletter. There is no mailed issue. Subscribers retrieve the current weekly issue at the web site InvestmentST.com by logging in with a user name and password.

Unless otherwise noted, the weekly eNewsletter is posted by 1:35 PM central time each Monday, except for holidays and then on Tuesday. It may contain actionable, specific buy or sell advice to take that day at the Monday close in each portfolio. We may also use stop orders. For stops, check the ETF at quarter to the close. If it is below (or above) a stop level, assume it will close there and act on that. Portfolio data will be updated through the previous Friday's close. Fund symbols, rather than names, are the official identification used for activity.
