Trading Still

The Santa Claus rally has managed to bring the S&P 500 back to its 200-day simple moving average. It is now about flat for 2011. As you can see on the chart, however, it is still trending down, which suggests the main longer-term trend is down. If this trend remains intact, it means that the August to October lows will be taken out to the downside. If the trend changes, however, then the previous highs will be taken out to the upside.

The market of course does not move in a vacuum, but as a reaction and anticipation of events. So, what might be on the horizon to trigger further declines or will the main trend change?

For all the sound and fury from politicians worldwide about sovereign debt issues, the

WEEKLY REVIEW

12/27 No changes.

12/16 No changes.

12/12 No changes. The likelihood of a European recession has increased with its new austerity package. This will mute our domestic economy strength in the short-term. Bonds should benefit.

11/28 No changes.

11/21 Buy LQD (Investment Grade Corporate Bonds) as noted above. This will bring the Income Portfolio to near fully invested. Please also note the sell stops.

11/14 No changes. Still 70% in and 30% cash.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, and 9 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

12/27 The Bond Timing Model continues to show bearish, but I continue to hold my bond positions. Watch the stops.

12/19 Still bullish on bonds. The Bond Timing Model is designed to follow trends, hence it hasn't yet switched from bearish to bullish. I am, however, still bullish.

12/12 Still bullish on bonds.

12/5 Even though the Bond Timing Model shifted to bearish based on trends, I am still on a bullish buy.

11/28 Still on a buy corporate bond signal.

11/21 Corporate bonds have come down into a buy zone. See the Portfolio page for a buy signal.

Income Charts

AGG—Aggregate Bond Market

12/27 The longer-term trend remains up for bond prices (down for yields).
 12/19 No change.
 12/12 No change.
 12/5 No change, but the uptrend was broken.
 11/28 No change.
 11/21 No change.
 11/14 No change.
 11/4 No changes.
 10/31 Bouncing off support. (See also page 12 for more information.)

LQD—Corporate Bonds

12/27 No change.
 12/19 Still bullish.
 12/12 No change.
 12/5 So far so good.
 11/28 Still a good buying opportunity.
 11/21 LQD has sharply corrected to a good entry area. See the Portfolio.

PHB—High Yield

12/27 Here are the potential buy signals. The signals appear very short term trading oriented.
 12/19 Given that high yield corporate bonds have rolled over below their 200-day simple moving average, I am showing the sell signals from the preliminary work on the newish timing model being worked on.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion, a relative strength indicator between the ETF and AGG (Aggregated bond ETF) (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential places to buy and sell short. If the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell shorts. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows potential buys. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

12/27 No changes.

12/19 Portfolio is all in cash. Stopped out of the gold position last week.

12/12 Sold QQQ last week, taking profits. Still holding DGL, but may get stopped out today at close. Apparently investors are selling gold to scramble for dollars.

12/5 We're in the bounce mentioned last week. Will watch for resistance. Please watch for possible emails this week for updates.

11/28 I will buy for the bounce back into resistance.

11/21 No change. Still in cash, waiting for a pullback.

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

This shows the ETF Growth Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. Rank shows the number of comets from 5 to 1. The larger the better.

Growth Charts

QQQ—OTC

12/27 No changes.
 12/19 This shows the QQQ over the last year. Lots of heat, but no fire.
 12/12 Sold position on the fall out of the resistance zone.
 12/5 We're in the resistance zone of 57-58. So watch for a potential turn.
 11/28 Buying for a bounce back to 57-58 (about 6%).

DGL—Gold

12/27 Getting a series of buy signals on DGL after the big drop.
 12/19 Stopped out on drop through uptrend line. There is a preliminary buy signal, but at this point I'll ignore it.
 12/12 Continue to monitor.
 12/5 Given coordinated easing from central banks around the world, we have a buy signal on DGL. See the Growth Portfolio on page 6.
 11/28 No change.
 11/21 Another example of buy signals on a higher ranked ETF.

XLF—Financials

12/27 Wanted to show the buys against the main trend. Main trend was down, so buys were counterproductive. Shorting would have been better.
 12/19 Financials have trended down all year long, suggesting that the after effects of 2008 continue to linger.
 12/12 This is an example of a weak ETF with sell short signals. (FYI, final timing model is still under construction.)

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

reality is still one of kicking the problem down the road. Even if their strength only allows it to be months from now, rather than years from now. For example, the payroll tax issue was extended by only two months. It is a tough way to plan for individuals and corporations who live in the real world. Sovereign debt and the related spending cuts or tax raises is an ongoing issue.

China has been a driver for worldwide growth. They have been slowing that growth, curbing spending, tightening interest rates. Their stock market is nearing a three-year low.

European growth is tottering into recession.

Domestically our economy continues its slow-growth recuperation from the financial crisis hangover. Housing prices continue to decline. This impacts bank capital, which impacts the willingness and ability to lend. Unemployment is moving in the right direction, but compared with previous recoveries, the best to be said is the peak is still behind us.

So, all of these issues that dragged us through 2011 remain intact for 2012. Slow growth is the norm. The stock market will remain volatile, and probably end 2012 below where it started.

I understand the fourth year of a US presidential cycle should be up. But the impasses are still there. Compromise hasn't been possible. Just a reality of wanting a paycheck, so let's at least keep the lights on, rather than seriously deal with the issues. This attitude is not likely to change until after the election. Even then, unfortunately, the nature of politicians won't change.

For my part, I'll continue to try to trade the markets. I expect volatility to continue. The days of buy and hold may yet be years away.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use regularly.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Secular is years to decades.

Cyclical is 2-4 years.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

Oddly, bull and bear markets may occur simultaneously, but only over different time periods. For example, short term up, but long term down.

12/27/11 No changes.

12/19/11 Brought some additional information over to the portfolio results shown on pages 2 and 6.

12/12/11 No changes.

12/5/11 No changes.

11/28/11 No changes.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

Both portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment. This is a broad based index of domestic stocks.

You may subscribe on the web site InvestmentST.com using PayPal or call 1-800-800-6563 for Amex, Visa, MasterCard, or Discover orders or send a check to the address on the front page. Subscriptions may be tax deductible.

The recurring monthly subscription is $24.00. An annual subscription is $240.00. Subscribers receive this weekly eNewsletter. There is no mailed issue. Subscribers retrieve the current weekly issue at the web site InvestmentST.com by logging in with a user name and password.

Unless otherwise noted, the weekly eNewsletter is posted by 1:35 PM central time each Monday, except for holidays and then on Tuesday. It may contain actionable, specific buy or sell advice to take that day at the Monday close in each portfolio. We may also use stop orders. For stops, check the ETF at quarter to the close. If it is below (or above) a stop level, assume it will close there and act on that. Portfolio data will be updated through the previous Friday's close. Fund symbols, rather than names, are the official identification used for activity.

GUARANTEE: Subscriptions may be cancelled at any time. Annual subscriptions are refundable for the weekly term remaining with a four-week minimum charge, using a 52-week count. Monthly subscriptions just expire.
