The Games Children Play

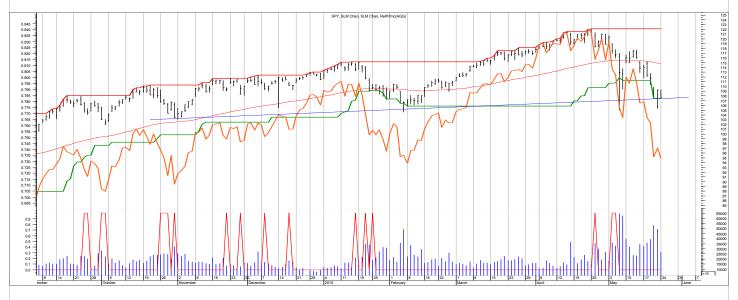

Old Maid, Who's Got the Button, or Musical Chairs, the theme was the same, don't get left holding the bag whether it was no-seat, the button, or the card. In today's financial climate, those serious lessons disguised as fun games come to mind as symbols of the problem, passing the bad marker before the game ends and you end up owning what's worthless.

The name of the game today of course is Passing Bad Debt. It is bad because the asset value no longer exists to support the loan's value or the cash flow from the asset is no longer sufficient, if it ever was, to support the debt payments. The corollary game is to avoid owning the depreciated asset.

That debt/asset shell over the last decade has traveled from consumer to corporation to government. It has traveled

WEEKLY REVIEW and PREVIEW

Poor reaction in protecting capital last week from the 'flight to quality' activity. Should have sold substantially more of the high-yield position in PHB and moved more into AGG, the investment grade alternative. But what now?

See the commentary on the charts on page 3.

For the portfolio, therefore, I will sell half the TIP position and buy the short-term fund BSV.

I'll wait for rallies in the highyield market before taking further action there.

Income Charts

PHB—high yield ETF.

The high-yield area of the bond market has now made a series of lower highs and lower lows. This is the definition of a bear market.

So, on rallies, I will move out of this area.

TIP—inflation protection ETF.

It looks to me like TIP has ran its course. It brokeout from its downtrend in April and rallied, but is now beginning to move sideways. So in the portfolio I will take some profits.

FXE—-foreign currency

The lesson seems to be to not underestimate the market's potential reaction to news. FXE continues in its bear market.

WEEKLY REVIEW

No changes this week to the portfolio.

The market is at major support as shown on the S&P 500 chart on page one (drawn as a blue trend line). But I'll hold off doing any buying until I see things begin to establish some positive divergences. Investor sentiment is bearish, but as a contrary indicator that is bullish. The VIX is spiking to fear levels, which is another contrary indicator. But those things are in fear territory for a reason. We need some resolution before risking more.

See performance rankings of the equity oriented ETFs on page six.

Growth Charts

IYM

Still at its major support area. This is like the S&P 500 shown on page one.

IWR—Russell Midcap Index

Even though it is down from its recent highs, this style of the stock market continues to outperform

DBC—Commodity

This ETF is now in a confirmed bear market. I've drawn circles around the key areas. As you can see, it has made lower highs and lower lows. So, on any rallies, not only will I sell my long position, but I will also look to go short.

The information this is giving us is that inflation is not a concern, but deflation is and all that entails as discussed in the past issue. Lower asset prices won't support loan valuations, so more capital may be required or foreclosures. It's the problem from Japan in their markets over the last 30 years.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, it the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

The two columns to the left show the rankings of the equity oriented ETFs in our database through the previous Friday's close.

These rankings are based on momentum indicators around which we generally want to trade. Our general strategy is to invest with the stronger performing ETFs by investing with the main trend and against the minor trend down. This means that in a bear (down) market, we want to short the funds that rally against their main trend downward. In a bull market, we want to buy during selloffs with the main trend up.

from one asset bubble to the next. Moreover, it has traveled around the world.

But we keep playing, hoping and thinking that it won't be me who gets left out, that it won't be me who gets left holding the bag.

And who is the world's guarantor? Gold? The rollup really seems to end at the US government, at the US dollar, at the US taxpayer. The problem, however, is that we too seem to be on the same path as Greece and others. Our debt to Gross Domestic Product continues to climb, inching nearer and nearer to 100%. What to do about it? Keep adding chairs so that no one is left out?

It's a pessimistic article today, but the good news is that children grow up, learning from the games we played. At least we hope we do.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 3)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 3: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:30pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $5/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied. Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

SUBSCRIPTIONS: To receive ETF Selections & Timing, you may subscribe in one of three ways. You may subscribe on the web site InvestmentST.com using PayPal or call 1-800-800-6563 for Visa or MasterCard orders or send a check to the address on the front page. Subscriptions may be tax deductible.

The recurring monthly subscription is $24.00. An annual subscription is $240.00. Subscribers receive this weekly eNewsletter. There is no mailed issue. Subscribers retrieve the current weekly issue at the web site InvestmentST.com by logging in using a log in name and password.

Unless otherwise noted, the weekly eNewsletter is posted by 1:30 PM central time each Monday, except for holidays and then on Tuesday. It may contain actionable, specific buy or sell advice to take that day at the Monday close in each portfolio. Portfolio data will be updated through the previous Friday's close. Fund symbols, rather than names, are the official identification used for activity.

GUARANTEE: Subscriptions may be cancelled at any time. Annual subscriptions are refundable for the weekly term remaining with a four-week minimum charge, using a 52-week count. Monthly subscriptions just expire.
