Short-Term Top

It is always interesting to look back and try to correlate the market's moves with investor emotions. Sometimes we can clearly see the turning points. It's an art though, not a science. It also doesn't always work to perfection.

For example, remember back in July when the market looked like it would plunge? The majority of services became very bearish. I countered that the "new" low was part of the same correction pattern and that the market should bottom.

More recently we are seeing the opposite. Advisors and investors are increasingly bullish. Yet we are at a market high.

It's not how we want to invest; that is, getting bearish at the lows and bullish at the highs. We want to try to "buy

WEEKLY REVIEW and PREVIEW

Take actions to buy and sell as noted above.

PHB is back to the top of its range, so I'm again selling a portion. Put the proceeds back into the money market.

Income Charts

PHB—high yield ETF.

10/4/10 Take further profits on the rally.

9/27 Take profits and redeploy as noted on page 2.

9/20 PHB is rallying back into resistance. I'll watch for more profit-taking points.

TIP—Treasury inflation protection

PCY—Emerging Market Sovereign Debt

10/4/10 Should make a new high, else consolidation period ahead.

9/27/10 Good buying opportunity.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion, a relative strength indicator between the ETF and AGG (Aggregated bond ETF) (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential places to buy and sell short. If the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell shorts. If the moving average is trending up, the spike shows potential buys. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

WEEKLY REVIEW

Changes were sent out in an emailed hotline last Thursday 9/30/10.

RSW is an inverse fund that is 200% short the S&P 500.

I had said sell half of IWR, but put down 220 shares, so used 220, rather than 110.

See performance rankings of the equity oriented ETFs on page six.

Growth Charts

XLU—Utilities

10/4 Should perform relatively well.

IWR—Russell mid-cap index

10/4/10 Pullback in progress. Will look to reenter on correction.

9/20/10 IWR gapped through its consolidation top. This is bullish.

9/13/10 IWR has formed a nice head and shoulders pattern. Today (Monday 9/13/10) may prove to be the breakout point. If so, it is projected to rise to a first target of about 95

ICF—REIT

10/4/10 Uptrend intake.

9/20/10 Except for the low volume, things appear positive.

9/13/10 ICF is projected to move at least another 10% higher from here.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

The two columns to the left show the rankings of the equity oriented ETFs in our database through the previous Friday's close.

These rankings are based on momentum indicators around which we generally want to trade. Our general strategy is to invest with the stronger performing ETFs by investing with the main trend and against the minor trend down. This means that in a bear (down) market, we want to short the funds that rally against their main trend downward. In a bull market, we want to buy during selloffs with the main trend up.

in fear” and “sell in greed”. In other words, we want to try to buy at lows and sell at highs. But they work in tandem. To have the capital available at lows, we have to sell at highs.

So, with that in mind, I sent out a special emailed hotline last Thursday 9/30/10. In it I said to take some profits and initiate a short position. The reasoning was that the market had come a long way in a short period. It was also at a short-term resistance area. You can see this on the chart on page 1.

Basically the market was realizing what I've been saying all along. The economy is not in that bad of shape. Yes, things have slowed down, but it is still expanding. As such, it is not contracting, which would imply a recession.

So, I expect a market pull-back here and will look to reenter at lower levels.

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 3)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 3: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:30pm est.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $5/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.

SUBSCRIPTIONS: To receive ETF Selections & Timing, you may subscribe in one of three ways. You may subscribe on the web site InvestmentST.com using PayPal or call 1-800-800-6563 for Visa or MasterCard orders or send a check to the address on the front page. Subscriptions may be tax deductible.

The recurring monthly subscription is $24.00. An annual subscription is $240.00. Subscribers receive this weekly eNewsletter. There is no mailed issue. Subscribers retrieve the current weekly issue at the web site InvestmentST.com by logging in using a log in name and password.

Unless otherwise noted, the weekly eNewsletter is posted by 1:30 PM central time each Monday, except for holidays and then on Tuesday. It may contain actionable, specific buy or sell advice to take that day at the Monday close in each portfolio. Portfolio data will be updated through the previous Friday's close. Fund symbols, rather than names, are the official identification used for activity.

GUARANTEE: Subscriptions may be cancelled at any time. Annual subscriptions are refundable for the weekly term remaining with a four-week minimum charge, using a 52-week count. Monthly subscriptions just expire.
