Rally Reversal

The stock market has surged over the past few weeks for a number of positive related reasons. These are reversals of the bad news that took the market lower in late July and early August.

The main news appears to be the progress in Europe on how to deal with their bank and sovereign debt crisis. Apparently they will raise capital from a variety of sources and attempt to recapitalize. They may allow Greece to selectively default. A final solution is supposed to be announced this week. The hope is that this will ease liquidity concerns and keep Europe out of recession.

The next bit of positive news is the domestic economy is not quite as weak as expected. It is still not creating new jobs, but it is hanging in there. As

WEEKLY REVIEW

10/24 70% invested in AGG. Watch the stop level.

10/3 Operation twist has begun whereby the Fed will sell some shorter-dated Treasuries in order to buy longer-dated ones. This is an attempt to lower long-term rates, which in turn, is supposed to help the economy. Please note the new buy.

9/26 No changes.

9/16 Selling BWX for a short-term loss. Lowered the stop on PHB; high yields are attractive.

ETF data on pages 3, 7, 8, and 9 are for the periods shown (12months, 9, 6, 3, and 1) through the previous month's close. Generally, we want to own the top ranked ETFs (shown in green) and avoid or short the lower ranked ETFs (shown in red).

This is the ETF Income Database and Ranking. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet (not shown), which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better. V, CS, and C are proprietary tools. Rank column shows the number of comets.

SLM Bond Timing Model

The SLM Bond Timing Model is based on the expected direction of the Corporate Bond market. The green bars are bullish (expect higher prices and lower yields) and the red bars are bearish (expect lower prices and higher yields). White spaces indicate that the previous signal is still in effect.

WEEKLY REVIEW

10/24 Bond market has corrected some and we bought in the Income Portfolio.

10/4 The corporate bond market has pulled back. Time to buy with a close stop. See page 2.

9/26 I tell you, the Standard & Poors downgrade from AAA to AA of America's Treasuries has got to rank among the top 5 worst calls of the past 40 years.

9/19 The corporate bond market looks to be rolling over. My corporate bond timing model turns bearish (shown above).

9/12 Trend up. Safety trade is still on.

WEEKLY REVIEW

10/24 After confirming a down market, the market turned and rallied the last couple weeks without us. It now closes in on its descending 200-day moving average (see chart page 1). No changes.

10/3 Cash looking good. Reshort Spain as noted above. For QQQ, sell if it closes below $52 OR if it does not rally above $54 by close on Tuesday (10/4), then also sell it. Basically, QQQ needs to rally soon or we're out and will reassess.

9/26 No changes.

9/16 Reenter short EWP (Spain). Sell 1/2 of the two long positions.

9/12 The market is either at a ledge or bottom here. Will stand aside with current positions for now. Watch the stops.

9/5 Please note the raised stop levels. They are tight, so expect the possibility of some whipsaws (in, out, in, out).

This page shows the top ranked ETF Growth Database. It shows performance over the last 12, 9, 6, 3, and 1 months through the previous month's end. V is Volatility. NAV is price. CS is Comet Strength (not shown). C is Comet, which is an ETF's risk-adjusted performance; the higher the better (not shown). This gives us the Rank column (shown).

Generally speaking, we want to own the top-ranked ETFs with 5 and 4 comets. (Comets, not stars, because unlike stars that are fixed, comets come into and out of prominence. We want our thinking, our metaphor aligning with reality.

Each chart shows daily prices (top portion), volume (bottom portion), a moving average (smoothed red line on price portion), a relative performance indicator between the ETF and S&P 500 (orange line), and red spikes. The spikes show potential buy and sell short signals. Generally speaking, if the moving average is trending down, the spike shows a potential sell short. If the moving average is trending up, but the ETF declines, the spike shows a potential buy. The charts do not show selling or covering signals.

I've been mentioning, on the leading economic indicator news, it continues to trend higher, suggesting expansion over the next six months. However, the growth in the indicator has slowed.

Today, Caterpillar (CAT) reported good 3q news.

In sum, the economic news both domestically and abroad has improved somewhat.

In addition to economic news, I've continued to watch the technicals and investor sentiment for further information on the likely direction of the stock market.

Technically, the market was confirming lower prices in early October. Given the recent rebound, this has to be revisited.

Lastly, investor sentiment never reached extreme levels of bearishness. This is a contrary indicator. This lack of an extreme negative reading never triggered a buy signal.

So, at this time, given that the market has already rallied a long way, I will stand on the sidelines for now, waiting for some pullback to consider reinvesting. If we get some positive European news this week, it may turn out to be a classic case of "buy the rumor and sell the news". In other words, the top for this run may be a day or two away.

Just to clarify a couple of terms that I use.

Short-term is days to weeks.

Intermediate-term is weeks to months.

Long-term is months to years.

Bull market is a series of higher highs and higher lows.

Bear market is a series of lower lows and lower highs.

Neutral market is sideways without a discernible pattern.

10/24/11 My apologies for the missed weekly issues, but subscribers should have received emailed hotline updates. For this issue, the ETF rankings have been updated.

10/3 I expect the ETF rankings to be updated this week. So check back Thursday for a new posting of this same issue, but with the rankings updated through 9/30/11.

9/26 No ETF S&T changes.

9/16 No changes.

9/12 No changes.

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 6)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk consistently over time through bull and bear markets.

Income Portfolio, page 2: Uses a proprietary selection methodology on all of the monitored bond-oriented ETFs to pick the top ETFs. I then use a proprietary timing model to decide whether to buy, sell, hold, or avoid.

Growth Portfolio, page 6: Uses the same methodologies as in the Income Portfolio, except as it is applied to stock-oriented ETFs.

All portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday, unless otherwise noted in any emailed hotline update or triggered stop orders. Issues are normally posted on Mondays by 1:35pm cst.

Portfolios are updated through the Friday close the week before.

Dividends are reinvested in additional shares. Commissions of $10/trade and short-term redemption charges, if any, are applied.

Interest is zero for the money market (cash) position.
