Cyprus

Over the weekend as part of a country wide bailout, Cyprus announced that bank deposits will be shaved to help pay for it. If one had more than 100,000euro in a deposit, a haircut of 9.9% was incurred. For those with less, a 6.75% cut was announced.

So, you go to bed with 100,000 and the next morning you have 90,000. Ouch.

One might expect this overnight cut in the stock market. Exogenous events like an assassination happen rarely, but when they do, it can trigger an automatic sharp gap down. But that this happens in a supposedly safe bank deposit? What's next?

REVIEW since last issue

3/18 AOSL may be breaking to the upside, but no public supporting news.

3/11 No changes.

3/4 ANIK jumped on good news. There is a new position AOSL to be bought.

2/25 No changes.

2/19 WTT appears to be breaking higher.

2/11 GENC reported a poor Q1 today due to late signings, but factories now are operating at full capacity.

I'm holding. No change to OPLK.

2/4 OPLK was hit by a less than expected earnings report. I'll let the dust settle and then decide to buy more or sell.

Please note the new buy ANIK.

1/28 Watch for the potential buy on SILU. OPLK may be breaking out to the upside.

1/21 Surprising that the dividend payers haven't rallied more.

Feature Company (REITERATION)

ALPHA & OMEGA SEMICONDUCTOR (AOSL)

I've been watching this stock for a number of months. It designs, develops, and supplies power semiconductors. 6-month revenue comes in at $185 million with net income of $11.7 million or $0.46/share.

The risk on this company, like with other small companies, is their concentration of customers. A is 24%, B is 44%, C is 11% of revenues. Total between the three is 79%.

Offsetting the risk somewhat is the single digit PE ratio.

Their website is www.aosmd.com. The chart below is their weekly price from mid 2010 to the present.

40% of the deposits were from foreigners, so it's not necessarily only a domestic issue.

Still, given that Cyprus is a tiny percentage of the Euro's GDP, it almost smells like a trial balloon. In other words, it's a test to see what sort of feedback is incurred with minimal damage (unless of course it was your deposit). If the reaction is fairly muted, then the solution, though painful, is still swallowed.

Our domestic stock market is off less than 0.15%; it's a yawn. Muted or complacent, we're obviously not concerned with any implications, fallouts, or dominoes. The rock in the pond didn't create any ripples.

In the meantime, we'll continue to try to participate in the upside, while maintaining our stop levels. One just hopes the market doesn't gap down through them in an untimely manner.

Please see the individual portfolio pages for any changes.
