Is It Ever Different?

The stock market continues to trace out its ongoing negative divergence between the Dow Industrials and Dow Transports. This is shown clearly on the chart below.

The most expensive investment phrases are “this time it’s different” and “things never change”. The reconciliation of those two ideas is what’s reflected in the day to day give and take in the market as it moves up and down.

The primary positive influence on stocks is the ongoing central bank intervention on markets around the globe. Take that away, and I suspect the market would be down about 20% or back below its previous lows set last September. After all, we know the market is a discounting mechanism and it has not discounted even the possibility of a all-but-assured recession next year in 2013. Between already written spending

REVIEW since last issue

9/10 Monitor the new stop on TAXI.

9/4 Keep an eye on TAXI's stop.

8/27 The new buys were triggered last week. No new buy levels or recommendations. Note that I raised the stop level on TAXI.

8/20 GENC remains the cheapest stock out there that I'm aware of. OPLK jumped on their results. Please note the new buys on the Watch List.

8/13 The three stocks were picked up below their buy limits in the last two weeks. I remain fairly defensive given the picture of weakness in the stock market on both a fundamental and technical basis.

For this portfolio, we seek to outperform the Dow Industrials using proprietary timing and weighting formulas of the underlying thirty stocks of the Dow Industrials . We also will use the ETF that tracks the same. The symbol is DIA.

We monitor the underlying individual stocks for buys and sells in order to overweight the portfolio to what is expected to outperform and underweight the portfolio with what is expected to underperform.

No new recommendations.

There are numerous stocks to trade of course, but no new ones that show up really cheap.

cuts and tax increases scheduled to expire on 12/31/12, the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office figures growth will be negative at least for the first two quarters of 2013. That's a recession.

The markets, however, are ignoring this. Perhaps Congress will get together and change things. Perhaps the rest of the world will begin to grow substantially and pull us up with them. Or perhaps the market is simply being propped up by all the loose cash. Buy a stock and get the dividend, forget the risk, it's better than 0.1% in a CD.

There is the sense of, okay, let's join the fray, we'll be nimble enough to get out of there before it all falls apart. After all, it may not fall apart. But history doesn't support these notions. Negative divergences are resolved to the downside. The market does go down in anticipation of a recession.

Maybe this time it's different? Probably not.

So, we'll continue to take a cautious stance on the markets.

See the individual pages for any specific, actionable recommendations.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 3)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk.

The two portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000. Beginning in 2012 (12/31/11), the official portfolio for measuring the newsletter performance is the Stock Portfolio only.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday (the day this eNewsletter is posted), or if a position is stopped out, the close that day, unless otherwise noted.

Portfolios are updated through the preceding Friday's close.

Stock dividends are paid in cash. Interest is assumed to be zero for the money market (cash) position. Commission costs to buy and sell are assumed to be $10.00 per trade.

The Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment.
