Moving Along

The Dow Industrials continues to inch higher to its previous high, which if it does would suggest that the market is back in gear to the upside. It would join the already made highs of the Dow Transports. The chart below shows these things.

Until then, caution is the watch word. As well, confirmation of this as a top would not arrive until both indexes close below their previous lows (circled on the chart below).

The debt drama is over in Washington, at least for the moment, and disaster avoided. The fall out in terms of weaker economic numbers due to the closure, however, is not yet felt.

In the meantime, investor sentiment continues to ratchet

REVIEW since last issue

10/28 No changes. O tumbled on the news of a secondary offering, but has rebounded.

10/21 No changes.

10/14 I've raised the buy limit on MVC in reaction to its positive news. GAIN raised its monthly dividend from 0.05 to 0.06. I'll take some gains on MCGC in reaction to the first page article.

10/7 MVC announced it is selling its largest portfolio holding. The dividend may "materially" change, the company said. As of 7/31/13, it's NAV was $17.36. Stock is still priced at nearly a 25% discount.

9/30 WTT rallied back and we will take further profits.

9/23 MCC is trading above its NAV (net asset value). It pays an excellent dividend, but time to look for an exit. WTT rallied back up and time to take more profits there.

9/16 After its nice rally, GENC is consolidating its gains. It is still undervalued. NGPC is looking for ways to narrow its stock price from its value and so its price jumped to the upside out of its previous trading range also.

For this portfolio, we seek to outperform the Dow Industrials using proprietary timing and weighting formulas of the underlying thirty stocks of the Dow Industrials. We also will use the ETF that tracks the same. The symbol is DIA.

We monitor the underlying individual stocks for buys and sells in order to overweight the portfolio to what is expected to outperform and underweight the portfolio with what is expected to underperform.

Finding “cheap” stocks is getting harder and harder. No new recommendations for now.

upwards to extreme bullish readings.

This combination of weaker internals, ignored economic fundamentals, and increased investor bullishness may eventually pose some problems for the remainder of the year.

On the other hand, the Federal Reserve appears intent on maintaining its easy money policies of the last few years, keeping rates near zero and buying bonds. Taper talk has also tapered off for now. Fed actions are the main bullish factors driving stocks into overbought, overvalued territory.

An example of the overvaluation is the CAPE (PE-10, an averaged 10 year inflation adjusted PE ratio, Robert Shiller); it is at 24.8. The chart from 1880 through the present is shown below.

So, the momentum and trend of the market is up, the Fed is behind the move, but the market is overvalued.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 3)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk.

The two portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000. Beginning in 2012 (12/31/11), the official portfolio for measuring the newsletter performance is the Stock Portfolio only.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday (the day this eNewsletter is posted), or if a position is stopped out, the close that day, unless otherwise noted.

Portfolios are updated through the preceding Friday's close.

Stock dividends are paid in cash. Interest is assumed to be zero for the money market (cash) position. Commission costs to buy and sell are assumed to be $10.00 per trade.

The S&P 500 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment.
