Last Minutes

The election is in the bag. Nothing has changed. The same parties control Washington, just like they have for the last four years. The markets immediately shifted their focus to the Fiscal Cliff and sold off. The question is whether politics as usual will give way to the same politics as usual or not?

Within days both sides of the aisle were extending verbal handshakes of let's get together and work it out. Will they?

Maybe. Even though they've had four previous years in which to do so, perhaps it will happen as my grandmother used to say. If it weren't for the last minute, nothing would get done.

They've got 49 days of the

REVIEW since last issue

11/12 Buy more NGPC as noted above.

11/5 GENC remains the cheapest stock out there I know of. OPLK reported $0.26 q1 earnings, beating estimates of $0.20. WTT is locked in a trading range, but, given good upcoming earnings, should move up. 10/30 MCGC reduced its dividend. Still trades below NAV.

10/22 MVC raised its dividend this payout by 13%.

No other changes of note.

10/15 Buy the new position as noted above.

10/8 GENC has really fallen back, becoming cheaper and cheaper. Its market cap is priced below its net cash in the bank and it has a profitable business.

The buy limits shaded in light green above show where current prices are below buy limits.

10/1 Make the two new buys as noted above. They pay a decent dividend and appear relatively cheap.

For this portfolio, we seek to outperform the Dow Industrials using proprietary timing and weighting formulas of the underlying thirty stocks of the Dow Industrials . We also will use the ETF that tracks the same. The symbol is DIA.

We monitor the underlying individual stocks for buys and sells in order to overweight the portfolio to what is expected to outperform and underweight the portfolio with what is expected to underperform.

Feature Company (reiteration)

GAIN is another business development company, making equity and debt investments.

Its NAV is $9.10 and market price is $7.50. The stock yields 8%. The next ex-dividend date is 10/18/12 (you must buy before that date to receive the dividend). The company pays monthly at $0.05 per share.

The company very recently issued new stock at $7.45, which knocked the stock lower. Once this is digested, I expect the stock to rally back on up.

last minute to act. But in what way?

We already know neither side wants to change the payroll tax holiday. So, a 2% tax reinstatement is automatic. The Obama health care tax is automatic. This hits those making more than $250,000 and on unearned income.

In addition fiscal spending cuts are automatic. Built in.

All this add up to what the nonpartisan OMB has projected; they anticipate GDP decline of 1% in q1 and q2 for 2013.

The main question here is whether the stock market has discounted this recessionary possibility or if it is banking on politicians getting it together. Given the reaction of the last few days, it's clear the market has at least acknowledged the possibility of a recession. But that's all it has done.

To be sure, politicians may get it together by year end.

As well the Fed continues its course of easy money, which supports stocks.

So, generally speaking, I remain cautious.

Please see the specific portfolio pages for changes.

Descriptions & Disclosures

PORTFOLIO DESCRIPTIONS (pages 2 and 3)

Our guiding goal is to provide the most return with the least risk.

The two portfolios were started on 1/1/10 with $100,000. Beginning in 2012 (12/31/11), the official portfolio for measuring the newsletter performance is the Stock Portfolio only.

Portfolio changes will usually be made at the close on Monday (the day this eNewsletter is posted), or if a position is stopped out, the close that day, unless otherwise noted.

Portfolios are updated through the preceding Friday's close.

Stock dividends are paid in cash. Interest is assumed to be zero for the money market (cash) position. Commission costs to buy and sell are assumed to be $10.00 per trade.

The Wilshire 5000 TR (total return) includes dividend reinvestment.
